PETERSON'S MAGAZINE, for May is received: as bright and welcome true friends of Democracy would as May itself. The principal steel build it to last and to answer wise engraving, "Comin' Thro' The ends. This silly charge of Republi-Rye," is especially beautiful, and canism is a mere feint to cover up illustrates a capital story by Frank Lee Benedict. The article on "Scan- from Republicanism, unless it is dinavia" with its numerous engravings and its account of the Vikings, is one of the very noticeable papers for which this magazine is becoming famous. Then there is a charming love story, "Barbara," by a new contributor, from whom we hope contributor, from whom we hope often to hear. Mrs. Stephens' powerful novelet of Washington society deepens in interest with the chapters in this number. The Illustrations, embroideries, and fancy work generally, are as numerous and new ford's Radical Cure. Complete for $1. as ever. There are two colored patdollars a year, with great deductions to clubs, and a free conv. or a phototo clubs, and a free copy, or a photograph album, or a large engraving, for getting up the club. It is still in time to subscribe for 1882. Specimens are sent, grafis, to those wishing to get up clubs. Address, Protection of the Court of Street, Philadelphia, Pa. A Temperance Story. Children all love nice stories. So here is one of the old times. And it is a true one, and they are the only ones I like. I have heard it one of the family, an obt friend of mine. A half century or so ago, Temperance in cities was not common, and almost every house had a sideboard covered with the most beautiful glassware, de- and none are so profoundly grateful canters, tumblers, and cordial stands and show such an interest in recomfilled with fine brandies and cor- mending Hop Bitters as women dials, and the host and his friends. It is the only remedy peculiarly ily worship at home, and were in ache, weariness in the back or kid their seats at the nouse of God. Still there seemed to be no ters .- Courant. thought of danger. In a city of the West there lived a family of more than usual character. The father, cultivated, courteous, and a Christian by profession and walk, having no thought of danger for him-self, did not see any for his associ-ates. His wife believing whatever he did was perfect, lived on in that confidence for about fifteen years. God had given to them five daughters and a son. The parents had educated and trained them to obedience, love to God, and love to their fellow-beings. But to take a sip of cordial, to give it to friends, to take a little toddy themselves was a part of Christian hospitality of the day. Even preachers would go to the side-board and take a "glass" of somthing," after calling in from a long walk. The mother began to look on these ways as not wise ways, not sure ways. She read in her Bible, "Wine is a mockery strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise," "Be not among wine bibbers my son," The little son at her knees, the daughters growing rapidly up to vomanhood, soon to be launched into society for good or evil-what could she do to avert the evil? She pondered all these things in her own heart. She kept her own counsel. One morning Mr. G. came into the room with the tumbler of toddy. (It was his custom to bring it in, hand it to Mrs. G., who took a sip, then he drank, the eldest after him, going on down to the little son who got the sugar.) This morning he Cures. handed it smilingly to Mrs. G. She refused it by a shake of the head. He looked at her in amazemnt. "Are you sick old lady; why, you have to sweeten it for the rest of us, tlon't she, childen?" "I will never sweeten the accursed stuff again, sweeten the accursed stuff again, and will never, so help me God, offor it to the lips of any living soul, white I live," she answered, "What is the matter, are you afraid I will drink too much?" "Yes, I am afraid of myself, of you, and I do not sleep, for the horrible thought if this drinking goes on, this precious son will fill a drunkard's grave, and these daughters will all marry drinking men. I have resolved I will do my part." "Well, my wife, we will all go your way. Here goes the tumblers, decanters, contents where Principal Depot, WEEKS & POTTER, and all." So saying, he took them to an open door, threw them on to the pavement, broken to pieces. "Now, let us every one sign a pledge.

Loafing. We wonder if the young men embarked on the sea of loaferism ever stop to count the cost. Yet there is nothing so expensive. It cost time -whole days, months, years of it. It cost honor and self-respect, and the respect of your fellowmen. It cost happiness, in loss of virtue, cost happiness, in loss of virtue, morality and independence. The man who takes up loading for a living is the veriest slave alive. He must submit to the kicks of fortine, because he has not the moral staminate that lounge around barrooms, or stand on the street corners with cigars stuck in their mouths, day in and day out, and you will have the class who loaf for a living. What good are they but to cumber with the class who loaf for a living. What good are they but to cumber men strive for? Do something. THE BEST REMEDY pectoral. The efficiency, and ble efficiency, and the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma. Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of Aven's Cherary Pectoral are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can affer donly temperary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great hability that these diseases may, while so trified with, become deeply seated of incurable. Use A YER'S CHEREY PROTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.
